Important Guidelines for Independent Study

- Independent studies projects should only be sponsored by full-time faculty and are only for Stern students.
- Independent studies do not involve course credit for the volunteer instructor.
- Independent studies are voluntary for both faculty and student.
- Independent studies require a written proposal of study prepared by the student and signed by the faculty prior to the start of the semester for which the Independent Study credit is requested. The proposals will be presented to the departmental chair or deputy chair and require their written approval
- Independent study courses are intended to allow students to study material not included in courses at Stern, as a complement to carefully designed programs of study.
- Independent studies may be for one (1) credit only.
- A grade should be assigned at the completion of the study.
- Independent studies may not be used to give credit for work experience, including paid or unpaid internships.
- Students must have a 3.3 cumulative GPA to be eligible for independent study. Independent studies are open to juniors and seniors with departmental approval. Please note: Certain departments, such as finance, restrict this option only to seniors
