Dear NYU Stern alumni and valued friends,

On my fifth anniversary as dean of NYU Stern, I want to celebrate all that we have accomplished together during my time here, a large part of which would not have been possible without the support of our generous partners like you. As I mentioned in my recent State of the School update, NYU Stern has risen to new levels of quality and prestige, becoming the school of choice for the best and brightest students around the world. Our faculty continue to challenge these students in the classroom, and to conduct ground-breaking research. We also have embarked on a transformative infrastructure project to renovate classroom and community space and to upgrade technology throughout our buildings.

The engagement and enthusiasm of alumni, faculty, parents, corporate partners, and friends has been an important factor in our continued success. Your ongoing support, through gifts both large and small, made 2006–2007 a banner year for fundraising at Stern—we raised a total of $37.6 million from our generous donors. Leadership gifts helped us endow faculty chairs, establish permanent scholarships, and begin to transform our facilities on campus. Gifts to the unrestricted Stern Fund increased by 13 percent for a record-breaking total of $4.96 million, and the number of alumni donors increased by 7 percent to 7,729, the highest it has ever been.

In this newly conceived Investors’ Report, we highlight many of the projects and initiatives we were able to create and enhance during the past year thanks to your gifts. I hope you will find the report informative.

On behalf of the entire Stern community, I thank you again for your role in helping us reach ever greater heights. This is a great time to be part of the Stern family and I encourage you to stay involved. Help us to make Stern a continued source of pride among students and alumni, as well as a forum for the exchange of ideas that is a resource for the entire business community.

Sincerely,

Thomas F. Cooley
Dean

WHY PHILANTHROPY AT STERN IS IMPORTANT

Philanthropic support of NYU Stern is critical to the success of the School because tuition and endowment dollars cover only a portion of the cost of a Stern education. The combined efforts of Stern’s most generous philanthropic partners – alumni, parents, faculty, friends, and corporate donors – have helped to position Stern at the forefront of business education. Every gift received, both large and small, affords Stern the opportunity to affect large-scale change and to refine existing programs, further enhancing the Stern brand.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR NYU STERN

By every measure, the Campaign for NYU Stern has been a great success. The most ambitious fundraising effort in Stern’s history, the Campaign surpassed its initial goal of $150 million earlier than expected and continues to raise essential funds to help support the School’s academic programs, recruit an outstanding roster of faculty stars, increase financial aid to students, and initiate the largest facilities renovation since our programs were united in Washington Square.

Campaign funds, composed of both leadership gifts and annual gifts to the Stern Fund, are a substantial investment in the School’s future. Leadership gifts play a transformational role by enabling Stern to spearhead capital projects and establish permanent scholarships and faculty chairs, while annual gifts to the Stern Fund serve as an important source of flexible funds dedicated to the year’s most critical initiatives.

Alumni support of the Stern Fund is the cornerstone of the School’s annual giving program. It demonstrates pride in Stern, an investment in the future of the School and its students, and a commitment to increase the value of a Stern degree. It reflects alumni satisfaction with the quality of a Stern education and speaks to the collective power of the Stern alumni network.
“Financial support of NYU Stern is critical to the success of the School because tuition and endowment dollars cover only a portion of the cost of a Stern education.”

ANNUAL GIVING THROUGH THE STERN FUND

The Stern Fund is NYU Stern’s annual fund used to support operating and capital expenses. Contributions to the Stern Fund are allocated annually, at the dean’s discretion, to the areas of highest priority for the School and are used to fund new ventures, programs, and projects.

The flexibility of unrestricted Stern Fund gifts is vital to the growth of the School. It allows Stern to fund much-needed initiatives that keep the School on the cutting-edge of business education. Each year, Stern Fund dollars are invested in areas such as academic, curricular, and programmatic improvements, facilities and technology enhancements, scholarships, community-building activities, and faculty recruitment, retention, and research.

Annual support of the Stern Fund comes from a variety of places, including alumni, parents, faculty, friends, and corporate partners. In 2006–2007, annual gifts to the Stern Fund reached $4.96 million — a record for the School. Alumni participation in the Stern Fund rose to 10.6 percent, up from 10.2 percent the year before. These figures continue the upward trend at Stern of increased annual giving and alumni participation.

On the pages that follow are highlights of projects supported by leadership gifts and annual gifts to the School, insights from some of Stern’s philanthropic partners, and recognition of all Stern supporters from the 2006–2007 academic year.

Stern Fund Giving Societies: Haskins Partners and Young Haskins Partners

The Haskins Partners giving society includes Stern alumni and friends who support Stern at annual levels of $1,500 and above. Named for the School’s founding dean, Charles Waldo Haskins, the Haskins Partners giving society is a growing network of more than 450 business leaders brought together by their shared dedication to Stern. Haskins Partners enjoy a close relationship with the School and are invited to attend special events.

The Young Haskins Partners giving society is designed specifically for recent graduates of the Undergraduate College who support Stern at the $250 and $500 levels and who are eager to engage with the School in a meaningful way. Unique programs and networking opportunities make this an exciting group for recent graduates.

For more information about these giving societies, please log on to www.stern.nyu.edu/giving or call 212-998-4040.
COHORT PROGRAM FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

NYU’s location in the heart of New York City, the cultural and business capital of the world, is one of the foremost reasons students choose to attend Stern. However, Stern’s urban setting and non-traditional campus present a significant challenge in building and fostering community among students. To meet this challenge and to help students build a lifelong network of friends, Undergraduate Dean Sally Blount-Lyon launched the Cohort Program in 2004, which is funded by alumni and corporate support of the Stern Fund. This four-year initiative promotes a sense of camaraderie, pride, and community among students by placing them into groups of approximately 50 students, with whom they share experiences from their first day at Stern through graduation day.

The Cohort Program also gives Stern students the opportunity to enjoy many enriching cultural, social, and intellectual experiences in New York City, which might otherwise have been unavailable to them. During their four years at Stern, students attend exclusive dinners and networking events, Broadway shows, and museum exhibitions. They also visit the headquarters of local corporations and are mentored by alumni sponsors. This initiative has been enthusiastically received by students and has become a hallmark program of Stern’s Undergraduate College.

“If I had to describe the Cohort Program in one word, it would be ‘fun.’ My fellow students and I have enjoyed dinners at some of New York’s finest restaurants; attended performances of ballet, opera, and Broadway shows; and even went ice skating in Central Park. Through all of the stress of exams, internships, and recruiting, I find that my Cohort group provides me the support I need. Now, I am also comfortable talking with anyone about anything, from my favorite performance at the Metropolitan Opera to my favorite New York Knicks basketball players. As a senior looking back, I recognize that the opportunities offered through the Cohort Program have not only allowed me to develop friendships that will last a lifetime, but also helped me become a better person overall. I truly believe that the program has made me a more interesting, well-rounded person.”

SCHOLARSHIP AT STERN

From the beginning, NYU Stern has worked to open the gates of opportunity for all students, educating young men and women regardless of their financial circumstances or backgrounds and giving them the skills, confidence, and connections to open the doors of business for themselves. Contributions from our most generous alumni and friends help us remain true to NYU’s mission of meritocracy, allowing us to recruit the very best students regardless of their ability to fund their own education.

To continue to attract the best and brightest students in this highly competitive market, Stern relies heavily on our philanthropic partners to offer financial support based on need and merit. Named scholarships and gifts to the Stern Fund are an important investment in the future of students, and enable the School to provide exceptional educational opportunities to future business leaders from around the world.

“Being one of a handful of Harvey Beker Scholars has positively influenced both my academic and professional careers. The Scholarship provided me with vital support that allowed me to purchase books and needed supplies and to offset some of the loan debt that I had from my undergraduate education. In addition, being a Harvey Beker Scholar has allowed me to meet the other Harvey Beker Scholarship recipients, who form a small, tight-knit community of self-motivated students devoted to developing their careers and giving back to Stern. Before receiving this scholarship, I had no idea of the positive effect alumni investing can have on a student’s development and career aspirations. I can’t wait until I reach the point when I can contribute as an alumnus and aid in another student’s development the same way Mr. Beker was able to contribute to mine.”

TECHNOLOGY-ENHANCED CLASSROOMS AT STERN

Over the last two years, Stern has undertaken a major technology initiative to upgrade and enhance classrooms throughout the campus. Funded by contributions from our leadership donors and by the Stern Fund, classrooms around Stern’s campus are being upgraded on a rolling basis; the first was unveiled in the 2005–2006 academic year.

These technologically-enhanced classrooms aim to provide students with a more inclusive and collaborative educational experience by making learning as active as possible. Advanced features improve the students’ overall learning experience and are essential in keeping Stern at the forefront of business education.

These new classrooms have an enhanced sound system, which amplifies both the professor and class discussion. To assist professors in delivering dynamic lectures, these rooms offer several different projection options, some including dual projection, adjustable screens, and sliding white boards. Moreover, to further illustrate concepts in class, professors have the ability to annotate and save images through the use of a tablet feature at the podium. In addition to standard DVD, VCR, and Internet capabilities, the classrooms feature a digital recording system that provides a high-quality digital recording of lectures which can then be posted online for later review. Finally, classrooms have been outfitted with power outlets at each seat, which allow students to re-charge their wireless laptops in class.

“The new technology in our classrooms allows us to have a much more interactive experience with students. They are involved in the learning process, not just with me, but with their classmates as well. The paradigm has shifted, allowing for greater collaboration, greater understanding, and greater learning. Having spent my entire career with the Stern community, it’s important to me to know we are preparing future Stern graduates in the best ways possible. As a professor and a member of the Stern family, I am grateful for the financial support of fellow faculty members, alumni, and friends, which allows us to take this next step. We’re living in a technological, interactive, collaborative world. This is how business is done; it’s how people communicate in a global economy; and it’s how we need to teach our students. Teaching is much more than lecturing, and this technology affords us the opportunity to do our jobs better – to facilitate learning.”

FACULTY RESEARCH

NYU Stern’s mission to create and disseminate knowledge that will inform the dialogue between business and society relies in large part on our faculty and their research. Our ability to attract and support faculty whose work will contribute to the existing body of knowledge is one of the most important investments we can make as an educational institution. NYU Stern offers its faculty the opportunity to work with bright, motivated students and with other exceptional faculty members. Endowed chairs and fellowships and Stern Fund dollars help the School continue to attract and retain the very best scholars from around the world.

NYU Stern’s full-time faculty members include world-renowned scholars, current and past presidents of academic associations, award-winning authors, and a cadre of rising junior faculty members who are widely regarded as among the finest in the nation. For example, the recent research of Christine Petrovits, Assistant Professor of Accounting, and Baruch Lev, Philip Bardes Professor of Accounting and Finance and Director of the Vincent C. Ross Institute of Accounting Research, focuses on corporate social responsibility and poses the question, “Is doing good good for you?” Their study reveals that corporate philanthropy does, indeed, enhance the future revenue growth of companies.

“One of the more impressive things about Stern, from a faculty perspective, is how much the School supports innovative, cross-disciplinary research. Having the opportunity to push the boundaries of your field and venture into previously uncharted territory is an exciting possibility, but one not supported by many institutions. My professional experience focused on non-profit accounting and social responsibility. Having the chance to conduct research in this area was a big factor for me in deciding where to work as a professor.

Research in this field is becoming increasingly important as companies seek to improve more than just their bottom lines. Measuring social impact is an extremely relevant topic, but not one that many business schools are looking at from an academic standpoint. It’s exciting to be at Stern and to have the resources that allow us to stay at the cutting-edge of academic research.

Being able to research the current business environment also enriches the classroom experience. Stern students are such an inspiration. I’ve even developed some of my research topics from ideas that emerge in classroom discussions. While I’m a relatively recent addition to the faculty, I’m already cultivating meaningful relationships with my students and look forward to a dialogue with them for years to come. I am extremely thankful for the support I get at Stern and know that this is a unique environment.”

Christine Petrovits
Assistant Professor of Accounting
The combined efforts of Stern’s most generous philanthropic partners – alumni, parents, faculty, friends, and corporate donors – have helped to position Stern at the forefront of business education.
In my experience, starting a tradition of philanthropy as a student is important because it begins a pattern of giving back that you will hopefully carry with you throughout your life — it becomes a part of who you are and what you stand for. As a scholarship recipient, it was important to me to give back to Stern and to encourage my fellow classmates to as well, which is why I chose to serve on my class’s Legacy Committee. In addition, as a recent graduate, I participate in the Young Haskins Partner giving society, and provide the School with a matching corporate gift through my firm.

As a Legacy Co-Chair, I learned that while the percentage of graduating students who give every year continues to grow, it is not as high as our peer schools, and this trend continues throughout the alumni community as well. Some of this stems from the fact that with our urban campus it can be difficult to infuse the student body with the same sense of school spirit and community that other schools might foster. The overarching message, though, is that it’s all related — without the financial support, the student body doesn’t have the resources to build a better community.

It’s especially important to give back to Stern now as we continue to rise in the ranks of top business schools. It is essential that we provide students with the funding they need to build school spirit and camaraderie through student councils, school clubs, studies abroad, the Cohort Program, and other initiatives that help build a sense of community. A tight-knit student body engenders a strong alumni community — something that will benefit each of us as we progress through our lives and our careers.

“As a student, you invest a great deal of time and energy gaining admission to and getting through the program at Stern. One option is to just leave it all behind when you graduate; the other option, which I’ve chosen, is to continue to build upon the Stern experience and reap the rewards.

After graduation I moved to Charlotte and realized that I needed to remain connected to Stern in a meaningful way. Getting involved with Stern’s North Carolina Regional Group offered me the opportunity to easily assimilate into Charlotte and to really make a difference in the quality of my life here while maintaining a tie back to Stern. Stern regional groups carry with them a great responsibility — we serve as ambassadors for the School around the country and the world. It’s an opportunity to spread the word about Stern and to help build the brand on a global scale.

In addition to being involved as a regional leader, it’s important to me to share my financial success with Stern. It is incumbent upon us as alumni to support the School both with our time and money. For Stern to be a top-tier school, we have to help build it. I am proud to support Stern alumni events and the Stern Fund, and urge my fellow alumni to do the same.

Staying involved with the School in these many ways has given me so much. It has allowed me to further develop my professional network, build a Stern community in North Carolina, make new friends, meet new colleagues, and even pool ideas and capital with fellow Stern graduates. The Stern alumni community really is what you make of it.”
Christine Schneider (MBA ’94)
Chair, Alumnae Network Committee
Former Chair, NYU Stern Alumni Council
Haskins Partner

"Most Stern alumni are fortunate — we have had the opportunity to better ourselves by getting an education at a pre-eminent business school in one of the greatest cities in the world. After spending more than 10 years as an active alumna, I consider Stern to be much more than my alma mater; it is part of my extended family. That is why I feel so passionate about giving both my time and money to the School. It has always been important to me to share my professional success and experience with Stern. Becoming a Haskins Partner and being involved as an alumni volunteer has been rewarding for me. Working with the Alumni Council has given me the opportunity to collaborate with so many other talented alumni and has helped to broaden my personal and professional network. I’ve learned that life becomes much more meaningful when you share your experience with others.

If we want to continue to be a pre-eminent business school, we need to invest in ourselves. It’s just that simple. For that reason, and many others, it was important for me to step up my involvement this year. So much has come to me in my life; to share it with the institution that is important to me just feels right. I think about the experiences I’ve had as a result of Stern, the people I’ve met, the opportunities I’ve had, and the network I’ve developed. It’s impossible to repay the School for the doors it has opened for me, but I will continue to do what I can. When you give back, you get back — in many and unexpected ways."

Ed Kerschner (BS ’74 (Heights), MBA ’75)
Member, NYU Stern Board of Overseers
Haskins Partner
Adjunct Professor of Finance

"Over the years, my involvement with NYU Stern has become a two-way street. As a result of giving back, I believe you truly do receive, sometimes in large gestures but more often in subtleties. As an adjunct professor in the finance department, I have had the opportunity to interact with extraordinarily bright and challenging students, both at the undergraduate and graduate level. I sense the energy when a student smiles during a discussion in class and I know they ‘get it.’

Similarly, as a member of the Dean’s Executive Board and now the Board of Overseers, I have the honor of working with bright and accomplished business professionals, as well as participating in several unique cultural and learning experiences. The work my fellow alumni leaders and I do in support of Stern’s continued growth is exciting. Together, we’ve witnessed Stern’s expansion into a truly dynamic educational institution – from the reach of our geographical footprint to the breadth and quality of our faculty. My experience with Stern has become a virtuous circle of teaching and learning that has enabled me to continue to grow both personally and professionally.

Coming from a very modest background, I firmly believe that education is a key part of what enabled me to achieve the life that I have today. I was part of the University Scholars program, which enabled me to attend NYU, as well as participate in events on campus, in New York City, and literally, around the world. If the alumni who came before me had not supported the University, I might not have had this opportunity. This is why it’s incumbent upon alumni to ‘pass it on’ to future generations. Giving time and money to Stern can reaffirm who you are and what you mean to this truly remarkable and energetic community.”

Class Legacy Campaigns are an important tradition for graduating students at NYU Stern. Investing in the future of the School allows these new alumni to leave behind a lasting legacy, maintain their engagement with the School, enhance the quality of a Stern education for future students, and ensure that their Stern degree remains among the most prestigious in business education. We are grateful to the recent alumni who participated in their 2007 Class Legacy Campaigns and recognize their collective and individual contributions below.

The Full-time MBA Class of 2007 Legacy Campaign
The full-time MBA class made history raising $559,810 in pledges with 91 percent of the class participating in the Legacy Campaign. The class’s remarkable generosity established a fund to upgrade technology around campus, including the installation of LCD panels in MBA study rooms, to support additional enhanced classrooms, and to help upgrade the various online student administrative systems.

The 2007 Langone Legacy Campaign
The members of the incoming Langone core groups of 2004 raised a remarkable $111,440 in total pledges in the third year that Stern has ever organized a separate Legacy Campaign for part-time MBA students. The funds raised by the 2007 Langone Legacy Campaign will be used to support a hard-copy student directory for incoming Langone students, as well as activities to further enhance the Langone orientation sessions.

The Senior Class of 2007 Legacy Campaign
The Undergraduate Class of 2007 raised $94,851 in pledges to the Senior Legacy Campaign, with 40 percent class participation – both of which represent a new record for the School and a substantial increase over the previous year. The class gift will offer support for the renovations on the third floor of Tisch Hall, which is now used as a student lounge space.

The intellectual capital of our faculty is one of Stern’s most precious resources. Faculty members contribute to the School through their innovative research and outstanding teaching, and further demonstrate their commitment to Stern through their financial support. A range of faculty—full time, retired, visiting, and adjunct—came together across departments to invest in Stern during the Faculty Campaign, launched in the 2006-2007 year as part of the Campaign for NYU Stern. We are grateful for their participation, and thank them for their collective dedication to Stern’s future.
NYU Stern’s mandate to create and disseminate knowledge goes hand-in-hand with building strong corporate and foundation relationships. Given our location in New York City, the business capital of the world, we consider these partnerships to be a critical factor in our commitment to dynamic research, innovative teaching, and outstanding curricula.

Corporations and foundations have long provided a bedrock of support for the dynamic programs that prepare students at NYU Stern for leadership in the global economy. We deeply appreciate this support and extend a special thanks to all of our Corporate Partners for their annual contributions to Stern.
